All The World's A Stage And All

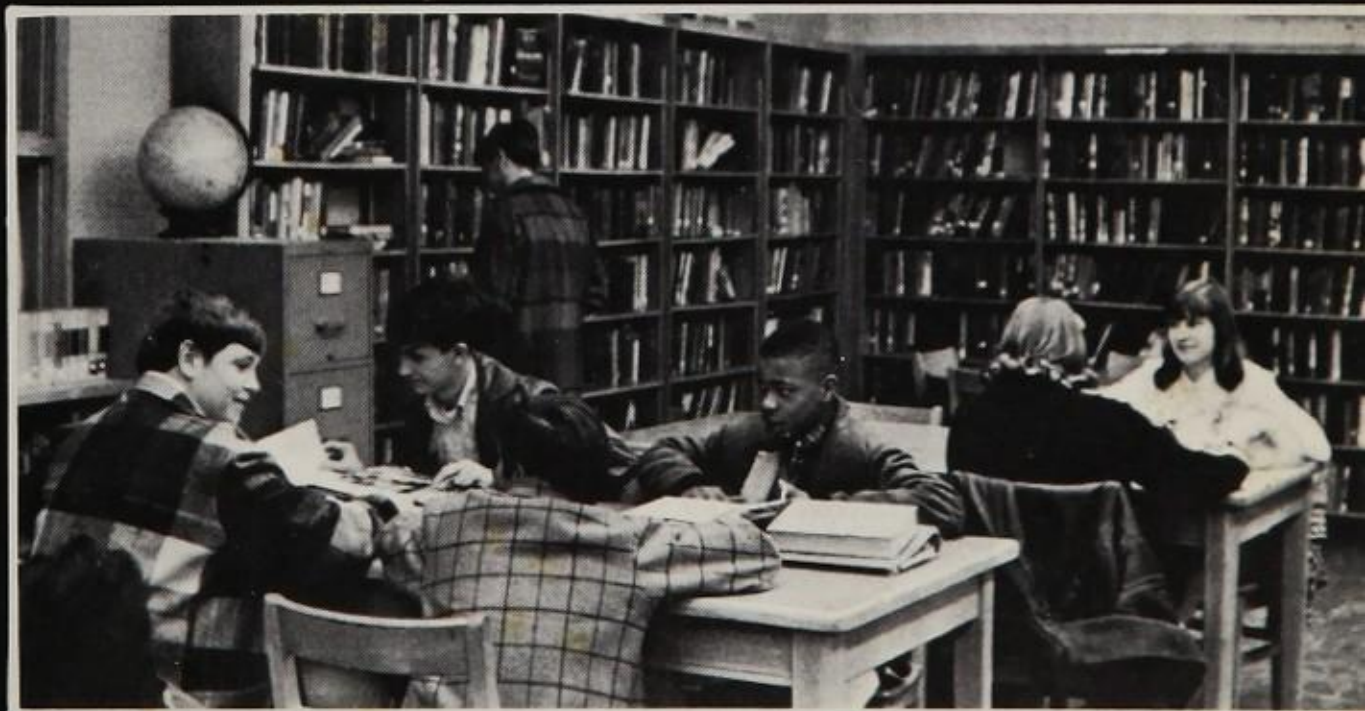

They Have Their Exits And Their Entrances

The Men And Women Merely Players

And Each Man In His Time Plays Many Parts

Have you ever thought of the world as one immense stage, with a thousand different plays being performed all at the same time? On a much smaller scale, North Dorchester can be thought of as a kind of theatre. Each one of the students and teachers have played an important role in the development of a play that could be called "1970". No one person has remained in the spotlight all throughout the "play"; the starring roles have changed from day to day as the importance of various parts of school life have changed. But no matter who filled the cast, the underlying theme of "1970" was learning, not only about specific fields of knowledge, but also about life.

The script has taken several unexpected turns, as illustrated by the dissolution of Mace's Lane High School, and the radical change in our county's dress code. Every event, no matter how small, has added to the variety of experiences that make North Dorchester what it is.

We, the members of the 1970 KENEU staff, have taken front row, center seats in order to view and record the highlights of "1970". We have tried to present, on the following pages, our interpretation of North Dorchester High School and what it has done in 1970.

Class Of '70 Is First To Graduate With New Rings

Late in 1968, a committee of students and teachers was formed to review ND's contract with L. G. Balfour Co., the maker of our class rings. It was generally felt that the students in the school would like to see a change in the design of the class ring. Sketches were submitted to the school, and a display showcase was set up to allow everyone to view the proposed changes. As the result of an election involving the classes of 1970 and 1971, the new design as shown on this page was approved. To be the first graduating class to wear the new ring is an unusual honor, and one that only the class of 1970 can claim.

SENIORS

The one hundred and thirteen members of the Class of 1970 have stepped into the spotlight on North Dorchester's stage. We have finally reached the top, and now look back once more before making our exit. As the seniors, we have been the ones selected to be the team captains, the publication editors, and the club presidents -- in short, the school leaders. As we pause at the peak, we see more clearly where we have been, and how much lies ahead.

As a class, we have grown and learned, worked and relaxed together for six years. We have made friendships which we will remember long after the graduation ceremonies are over. Our classmates have been honored and recognized by the class, the school, and many outside organizations. We have lived with each other for a part of our lives, and together we have known happiness and defeat. But in years to come, though we are separated, we will look back with pride on the year of the Class of '70.

Selected to lead the Class of 1970 was Jessie Karen Dodd. She was assisted by vice-president Kathy Lowe, secretary Norma Messick, and treasurer Dorothy Johns.

All the girls in the senior class voted for the person whom they thought best typified the qualities of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. The top three girls were asked to fill out a questionnaire on local, state, and Federal government. A faculty vote was then taken, and as a result, Jeanne Corkran was named the winner of the Daughters of the American Revolution award.

The award consisted of a certificate and pin given at the awards assembly, and also a trip to the Capitol in Washington, D. C. Included in the trip were the two other Dorchester County winners, and the girls were accompanied by members of the Dorset Chapter of the D. A. R.

Journeying to Washington on March 19, 1970, the girls were taken on a tour of the Capitol building. D. A. R. award winners from all across the state of Maryland were shown the center of United States government, and saw many of the legislators in action.

Seniors Discover Government

Named to participate in the annual summer programs of Maryland Boys State and Girls State were Ross Windsor, Bill Lankford, Andy Ruf, Kirk Hurley, Ruth Nimmo, Cathy Lowe, and Suellen Wheatley.

The one-week program's purpose was to provide citizenship training for outstanding students who will be seniors in the fall. The students are encouraged to live together as self-governing citizens. State and national elections are a part of the program. All participants become acquainted with the duties of a well-informed citizen, as well as their rights and privileges.

As a result of the instruction and association with others, Girls and Boys State will always be an important memory.

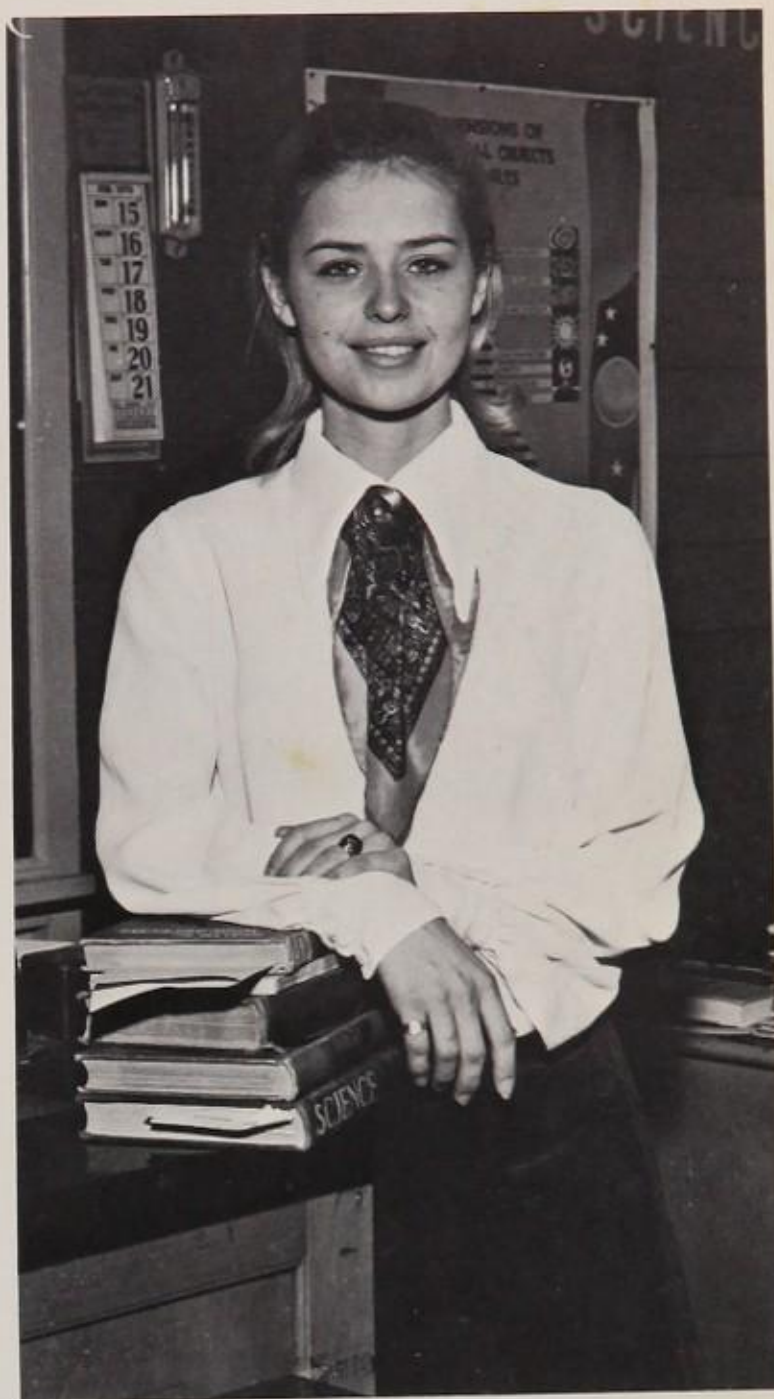

Seniors from the Class of 1970 received even more knowledge about government affairs by participation in them on various levels.

In December, 1969, representatives from the three high schools in Dorchester County met to select a student who would serve as a page in the Maryland General Assembly for a period of two weeks. After a vote was taken, Ruth Nimmo was chosen to be the page from Dorchester County with Linda Haywood named as her alternate.

A total of sixty pages were selected from the state of Maryland. Duties for the teenagers consisted of running errands for the legislature delegates and serving them in many ways. Ruth earned praise from many, among them the Honorable Thomas Hunter Lowe, Speaker of the House of Delegates.

But even more rewarding was the personal satisfaction and knowledge gained by the experience. Each Page took home a variety of memories, and also a new and valuable insight into the State of Maryland and its government.

Delegation Travels To New York Model Congress

Participants in Model Congress '70 were Jeri Bounds, Ruth Nimmo, Ross Windsor, Kirk Hurley, and Jeanne Corkran. They were accompanied on their trip to W. Tresper Clarke High School on Long Island by Mr. Dale Carrier.

For three days, the students acted as delegates to the congress of young people from the Northeast United States. Each was a committee member, and later served in either the House of Representatives or the Senate.

During this convention, the delegates experienced the problems and possibilities of government.

"The Night Before Christmas" and "Southern Paradise"

Couples dance, enjoy refreshments, or just chat at the 1969 Christmas dance with the theme of "'Twas the Night Before Christmas", held Saturday, December 20, 1969.

Stage decorations consisted of an outdoor scene when the prom theme of "Southern Paradise" was announced.

Typical of the Class of '71's hard work, and of the prom in general was this centerpiece.

Baccalaureate: A Prelude To Graduation

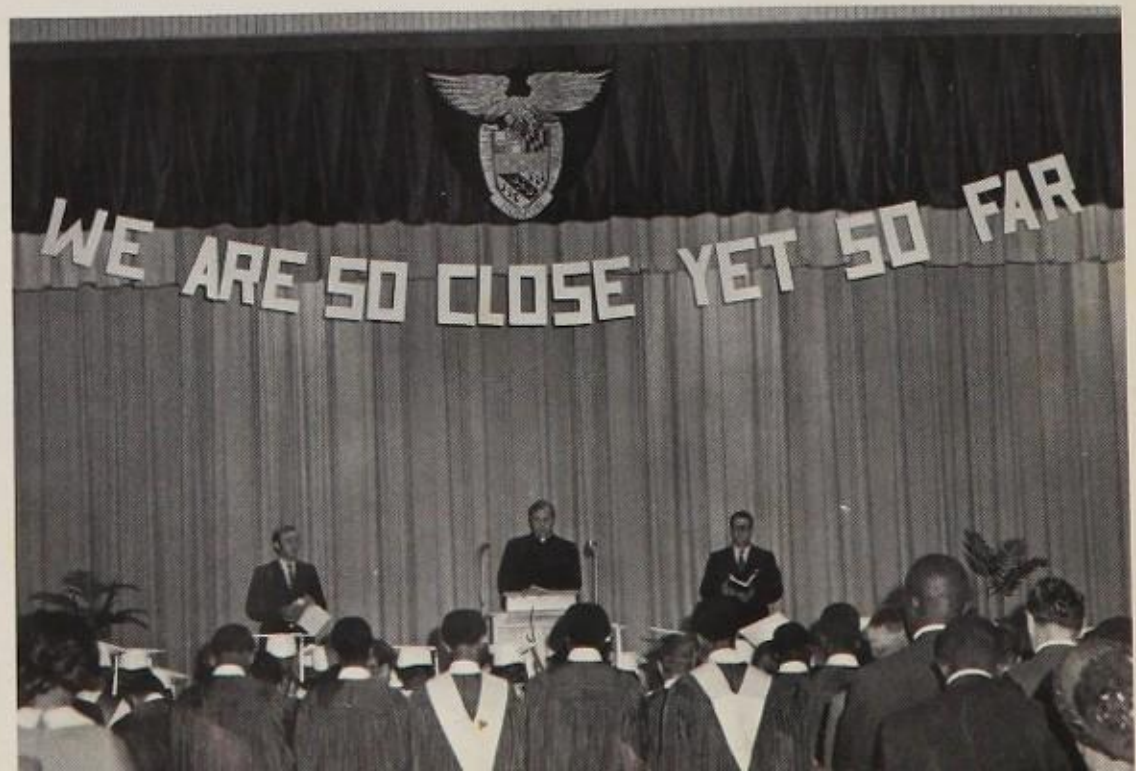

Seniors clustered nervously outside the gym, making last-minute adjustments to caps and gowns until the strains of "Holy, Holy, Holy" began, and the members of the Class of '70 marched into the gym.

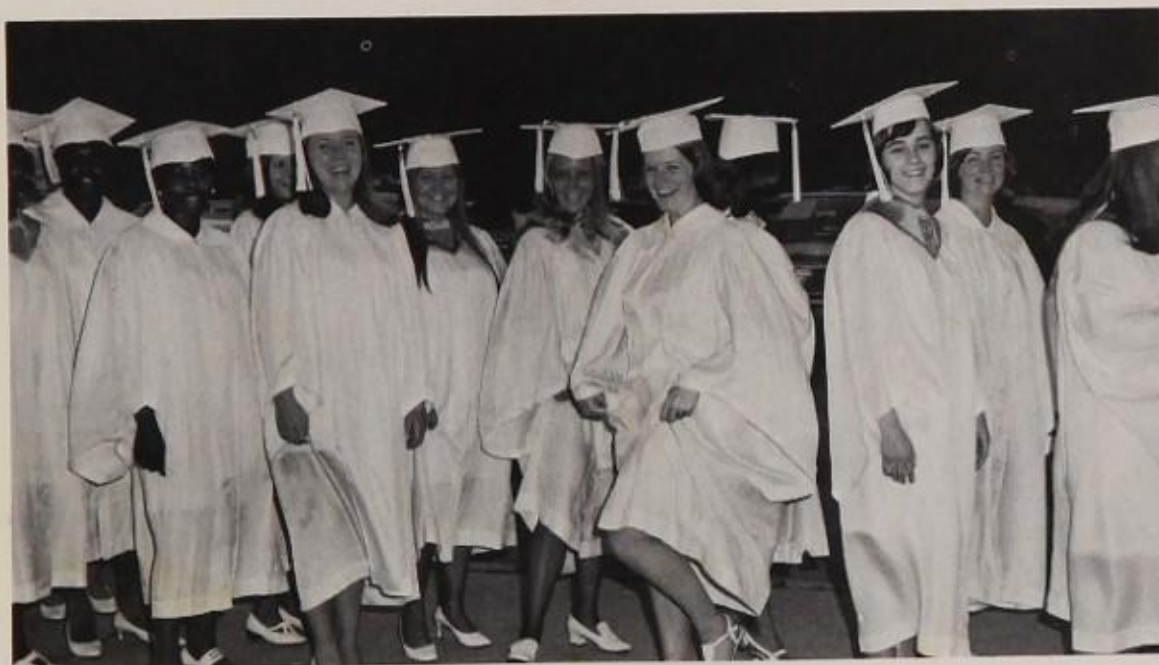

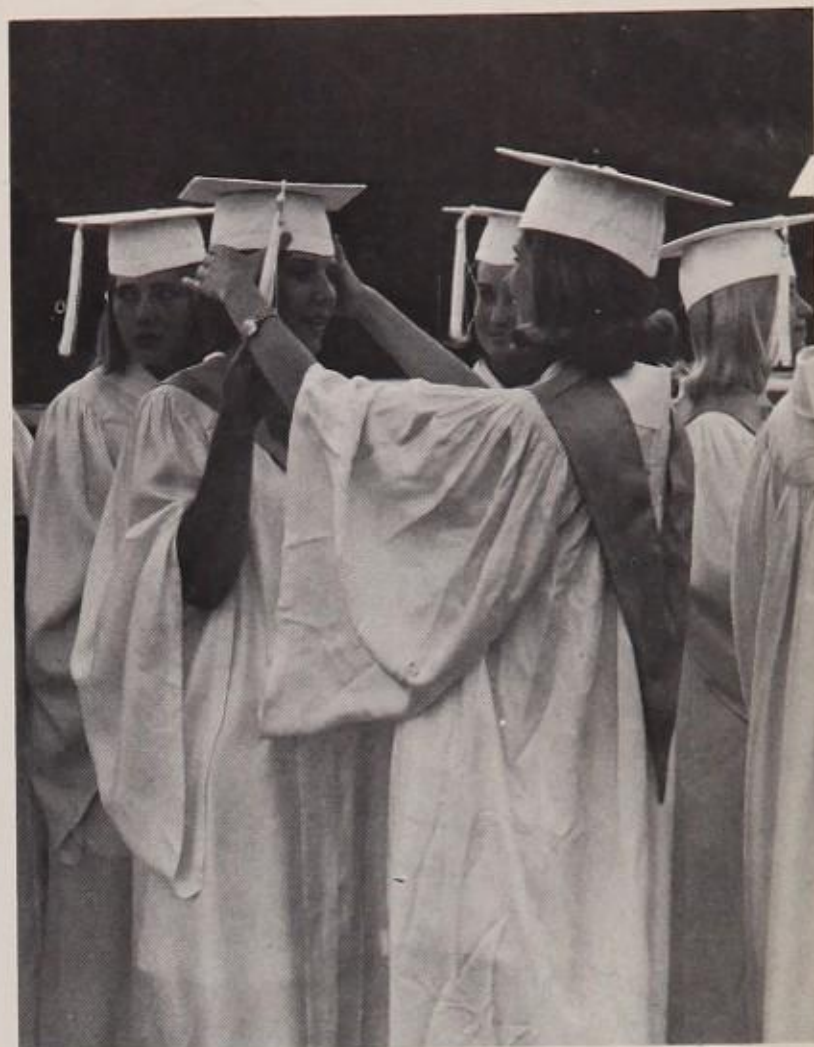

Prayers, Scripture readings, and songs by the glee club made up the baccalaureate program. It was climaxed by Reverend Ronald Arms' sermon, challenging us to play a greater role in shaping our lives, and reminding us that all crises bring with them opportunities for greatness.

The three ministers who took part in baccalaureate services were Reverend Ronald Arms, Reverend Judson Mills, and Reverend Carl Caudell.

Although many of had frequently doubted that it was possible, June had finally arrived, and with it, our graduation from North Dorchester. We put on our caps and gowns for the last time, and many minutes were spent adjusting tassels and Honor Society stoles. In the picture at right, Ellen Trice straightens Ann Harding's cap, while senior class president Karen Dodd and Jeri Bounds stand in the background. Mr. Trego and Mr. Carrier were hard at work lining the seniors up in the right order. After we each found our partners and our places, we made small talk and worried and hoped that everything would go all right. Most of all, we thought about the moments we had dreamed of for years.

The Class of 1970 was well known to many teachers for its sense of humor, and the good times continued right up until the last minute. Jill Shiflet, Janet Murphy, and Luci Doyle were three of those who eased the pre-graduation tension by acting in the most un-seniorly manner. Many of the seniors spent their last minutes outside thinking of all the other memories that the Class of '70 had made.

And suddenly, the signal came. The first seniors in line moved into the gym lobby. Slowly, the one hundred and twelve members of the senior class filed into the gym to "Pomp and Circumstance" played by the band. Shown here are graduates Shirley Bell, Shirley Wroten, Sharon Hamilton, and Joyce Cheesman, who were the first four to enter. The audience stood during the processional, and we stood too during Reverend Leo Forse's invocation. Our guests were on the stage, our motto "We're so close yet so far" hung above us, and the seniors were seated, ready for our graduation to begin.

Class president Jessie Karen Dodd welcomed parents, teachers, and guests in her opening speech at graduation.

Jeanne Corkran and Ruth Nimmo were both valedictorians, and they shared North Dorchester's highest academic honor.

The Honorable Thomas Hunter Lowe, Speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, was the guest speaker.

An End And A Beginning

The last of the graduates march out, and graduation and life at ND is over for the members of the Class of 1970.

Each graduate received their diploma, and each girl was given a

12 For Strong Finish

Harry Reid goes up and under for two points.

Starting five: Larry Aldridge, Bill Austin, Harry Reid, William Pinder, Willie Peterson.

The 69-70 Eagle season was one of successes and failures, comradeship and unity and a season to remember. The season was started on a dismal note, losing 7 of the first 8 games. But the team came to life by winning 9 of the last 12 games. This year's squad set a school record for total points, 1456 and also a scoring average of 72.8. All five starters averaged between 10 to 13 points per game which sufficiently proved the Eagles were a team, not a one man gang. The highlight of the year for the team was the overnite trip to Southern High. It was an experience that richened the lives of the team members.

Senior Girl Serves As LSASC Secretary

Jeri Bounds, secretary of the Lower Shore Association of Student Councils, with Mr. William Wheatley, advisor.

The power of any student body lies in its student government association. Its responsibility is to recognize and to act upon the needs of the students and the needs of the school. The student council must also become involved in its sponsoring organization in order to extract new and better ways to establish a strong student government.

Traditionally, the student council carries out certain school improvement projects, money making projects, and entertainment projects. The council's participation in the school year 1969-1970 has kept up with tradition as well as gone a step further. The presentation of activity letters served as the primary school improvement project -- providing an incentive for more active participation in school activities. Light bulb sales were the chief money making projects and the annual Back to School dances started the year's entertainment cycle. In addition to all of this, ND's council became very much involved in the regional, state, and national student governments. It has also formed the foundation for a separate Junior High Council, to assure more complete representation of junior high students.

From his evry screamed the eagle,
The keneu, the great war-eagle.
Sat upon the crags around them,
Wheeling flapped his wings above them

Song of Hiawatha
H. W. Longfellow

The first yearbook staff of North Dorchester chose KENEU as the name of the school's yearbook. Since the Eagle was named as ND's mascot, the word for eagle in the language of the Algonquin Indians who inhabited the Eastern Shore of Maryland, was selected to title the yearbook. The contents of the KENEU have served as a reminder to ND students of the many roles each of us have played in the drama of life. It is our hope that this year's KENEU will fulfill that purpose in portraying that part of this drama called "1970".
